

The FY2010 Defense Appropriations Bill makes critical investments in the health, well-being and readiness of our armed forces; addressing issues raised by servicemembers, their families, and Department of Defense officials in testimony before the Congress, and discovered through visits to military bases across the United States and overseas. At the same time, the bill begins to rein in the use of contractors and return inherently governmental functions to Department of Defense personnel.

---

{loadposition left}